Summary

Ever since my first PC (with Windows 3.11 with MS-DOS), I was fascinated to understand how to have fun with my old computer. I still remember when I installed my first software through a floppy disk; When I began to use Linux OS distros to learn shell scripts and C, all the journey was plenty of happy discoveries and painful moments when nothing worked as imagined. Looking backward now, I know that those challenging moments help me to overcome any kind of trial to learn new technologies and still have fun through the process.

This passion carried me to work solving problems with coding and dynamic cloud infrastructure. Solving problems using technology constantly gives me the purpose to help my team and my employers achieve their goals.
